

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A system for providing a mobile telephone service on board a vehicle is connected to a public land mobile network via a satellite and can set up at least one transport connection between the vehicle and the public land mobile network before

5 receiving a call request and then use the transport connection for a call as soon as a request to set up a call is received.